

Luscombe 8A

To: All BAS-Serco employees and anyone you think may be interested

Frank Williams, Having Fun

Date: 31 March 2010

Subject: Restoration of VR-BAK

Rebuilding Bermuda aviation history one rivet at a time

After a little break were getting back to work.

Howard came in and together we fabricated a new piece of wing cover

Followed by the installation of the aileron and a wing tip in a few more hours it should look like picture 2 this coming weekend We plan on making a frame for the fuselage to sit on clean the wings add a little fibreglass and prep for paint.

Also add a little fibreglass to the floats and make plans to secure the floats to the plane

Plus hundreds of little fiddly bits

Works/ fun starts at 2.00pm Saturday and Sunday

And if your not careful I will bore you with how I flew a 1940s luscombe in the UK
